

Citra Health Solutions Selects New CEO, Scott Sanner

Unanimous Board Endorsement Follows Wide-Ranging Search

Jacksonville, Fla., March 12, 2018 – Citra Health Solutions announced that the board of directors appointed Scott Sanner as the organization's chief executive officer effective immediately.

Sanner brings nearly 30 years of relevant industry experience to this new role having previously held positions at Change Healthcare including oversight of communication and payment services, as well as senior vice president and general manager of accountable care, where he grew the ACO business by over 30 percent. Prior to that, Sanner was the senior vice president and general manager of technology services at MED3000, Inc. and was responsible for the growth of MED3000's technology and physician services divisions. Sanner began his career at Misys Healthcare where he ultimately led the commercial operations of that business.

"Scott has an extensive track record of developing talent, delivering growth and empowering clients with competitive solutions in an ever-changing health care market," said Adam Dolder, chairman of the board. "His vision for the future, along with his personal experience with Citra's technology and services platform, gives him a distinct edge that will serve Citra well into the future."

"Citra's success has been built on strong relationships with their clients and I am excited to continue to enhance that experience because I know the demands they are facing. My mission is to give payers and providers an innovative partner that has their best interest in mind," Sanner said.
